RILEY CHILD-VERSE

The Raggedy Man

In this exquisite volume are assembled the several poems that relate the deeds, exploits, jests and humors of the favorite Riley character, beloved by children the land over, the hero of every nursery.

One of the most elaborate books for children ever issued.

Profusely illustrated in colors by

ETHEL FRANKLIN BETTS

Size, 11 x 12 inches, cloth, $1.50

MR. RILEY'S NEW BOOK

Morning

This long-awaited volume, made up exclusively of poems which have never been previously published in book form, will bring delight to the whole nation. Some of the poems are in dialect, of the author's richest humor. Others are flights of fancy and jewels of beauty in English of the purest purity.

THE BEST MAN

By HAROLD MacGRATH

THAT love will find a way is the theme of this thoroughly MacGrathian and most attractive volume.irate parents may storm and rage, clever rivals may scheme and plot, but the best man gets the girl, despite all obstacles.

The sentiment is as gay as a rainbow; and through the book Mr. MacGrath's sparkling humor plays brilliantly as ever.

By HAROLD BINDLOSS

Author of "Alton of Somasco," "The Dust of Conflict," etc.

A Romance of Exchanged Reputations

Illustrated in color by W. Herbert Dunton. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

Imagine a young man who changes a clean, laborious past for that of a wealthy scoundrel who resembles him in body only; imagine him bereft of his good name, shouldering the reputation and the enmities of the other; imagine him taking the threads of the other's life, weaving them into a better pattern, winning the respect of men and the love of a beautiful and proud girl. This unusual situation, full of unforeseen complications, makes WINSTON OF THE PRAIRIE a book of which you cannot read a part without wanting to know the end. The breath of the prairie sweeps through its pages, intensifying the power of the narrative.

ELINOR GLYN
Author of "Three Weeks"

Three large printings of "Three Weeks" have already been called for, and some of the shrewdest judges in the trade are predicting for it a sale of over 100,000 copies.

It is the story of a royal love-episode, and the London Times calls it the best thing the author of "The Visits of Elizabeth" has yet done. Read it yourself and we are sure, if you are unprejudiced, you will recommend it to your customers.

The Romance of the Salvation Army

By Hulda Friederichs. With Introduction by General Booth.

MISS HULDA FRIEDERICHS tells the story of many of the underlying forces which have helped to make the Salvation Army what it is. It is not probable that the general public is accustomed to associate romance with the work of this famous organisation, yet few more romantic stories than this have been told in the records of social and religious effort. Miss Friederichs relates the remarkable sources from which the vast streams of Salvationist effort to-day have sprung, and she has had the advantage of obtaining information from the highest sources. The very simplicity and directness of Miss Friederichs' method adds to the effectiveness of her presentation of the facts, many of which she is able to supply from her own observation of the Salvation Army at work. The story is illustrated by many photographs of unusual interest.

With 8 Full-page Illustrations. $1.25 net

GENERAL BOOTH, D.C.L.
Reduced reproduction of the portrait in "The Romance of the Salvation Army."

Reduced facsimile illustration from "The Coming of Isobel"

The Coming of Isobel

By Helen Wallace. Author of "The Sons of the Seigneurs."

IN her new novel, the author of "To Pleasure Madame," turns from Cavalier times to modern days, and proves that everyday life of the twentieth century can furnish as exciting tales as "the days of old romance." The story opens with the sudden disappearance of a young girl on the eve of her wedding. How she is found and brought home by her cousin and bridegroom-to-be, and the development of a highly original plot, leading to the dramatic revelation of a hidden past, will hold the attention until at last, in an unlooked-for fashion, love and loyalty receive their due reward.

With Frontispiece in Colour. $1.50

The Land of Enchantment

Illustrated by Arthur Rackham, A.R.W.S., the famous illustrator of "Peter Pan" and "Rip Van Winkle."

MR. RACKHAM now occupies one of the foremost positions in the ranks of black-and-white artists, won by sheer merit.

In this volume we have a collection of Fairy and Fanciful Tales by A. E. Bonser, B. Sidney Woolf, and E. S. Buchhelm, all charmingly illustrated by the artist whose "Peter Pan" and "Rip Van Winkle" have proved so successful. "The Maker of Ghosts and the Maker of Shadows"—"Stories from the Edda"—"Harry and Herodotus," are some of the titles of the tales.

The frontispiece is printed in colours, and is a typical example of Mr. Rackham's delicate colouring. The book also contains 36 other illustrations by the artist.

The book is printed upon imitation Japanese Vellum in handsome cloth binding. $3.00 net

NOTES IN SEASON.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will bring out on the 21st inst. "The Harrison Fisher Book," a collection of drawings in pen and ink reproduced in full colors, with an introduction by James B. Carington, the first collection ever published of this distinguished artist's work; "Major Vigoureux," by A. T. Quiller-Couch, an exquisitely written romance of life on a little island off the coast of England, told with the keen humor and the power of dramatic narrative that rank "Q" among the first story tellers of the day; also, "Nursery Rhymes from Mother Goose," illustrated in colors and in black and white by Mrs. G. G. Wiederseim, a new and quaintly humorous interpretation of the old nursery favorite.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY will issue on the 20th inst. Harold McGrath's new book, "The Best Man." They will bring out at the same time the seventh edition of Brand Whitlock's "The Turn of the Balance," which promises to bring about important prison reforms in the middle west, especially in Ohio, where the book has already made an impression. The recent serial publication of the book in one of the New York papers increased the sales of the book in New York City very materially, especially in the downtown district, and the effect was noticeable throughout the State. They will issue at once "The Geography of Palestine," by Martha Tarbell, a pamphlet describing the physical and political geography of Palestine in the time of Christ, designed for use of Sunday-school teachers.

B. W. DODGE & Co. will publish on the 21st inst. "The First Secretary," by Demetra and Kenneth Brown, author of "Sirocco," etc., with illustrations by Sydney Adamson, the story of an American attaché and a Turkish maid in which the Turkish harem and the Turkish ruler are intimately pictured by a writer who has lived for years in Constantinople; "A Noble Company of Adventurers," by Rufus Rockwell Wilson, a book for boys; "The Harringtons of Highcroft Farm," by J. P. Fletcher, author of "When Charles the First Was King," etc., with eight illustrations by J. Ayton Symington, a novel of real characters, but not historical characters, which will no doubt please and interest judges of literature; also, "The Dumpling," by Coulson Kernahan, a detective story of a great labor rising in London. They will publish on the 28th inst. "Feminine Finance," by Frances Crouch, a delightfully amusing story of New York life.

HARPER & BROTHERS bring out this week a new story by Joseph Conrad, entitled "The Secret Agent," a story of anarchistic plot and counterplot, in which a small, commonplace, ordinary-looking little shop in London furnishes "the secret agent," who plays against the existing order of things; "Discoveries in Every-day Europe," by Don C. Seitz, a record of delightfully amusing facts, with numerous pen-and-ink sketches, which amusingly and adequately supplement the text; "Mam' Linda," a stirring tale of life in old Georgia, by Will N. Harben, with illustrations; "In Wildest Africa," by C. G. Schillings, translated by Frederic Whyte and illustrated with more than 300 photographs of animal life in the African wilderness; "Santa Fé's Partner," a story of life in a mining town, by Thomas A. Janvier, with illustrations; also, "Eben Holden's Last Day a-Fishing," by Irving Bacheller, in which his old hero appears while fishing on a summer day and again in the old-fashioned country home at Christmas time.

Suggestions for young teachers who have had but little experience in selecting and adapting material to the comprehension of small children. The three volumes are for use in the autumn, winter and spring and are made up of questions directly connected with the special season then present. Each day has its plan of questions to be put by the teacher and answered by the pupil. First there is a morning talk, one on language, history, geography, etc. Poems, stories, pictures, legends and games aid the teacher in making his theme understood.

Canfield, W: Walker. The spotter: a romance of the oil region. N. Y., R. F. Fenno & Co., [1907.] c. 9-360 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Pennsylvania is the scene of the coming of the "spotter" to buy up the oil regions from the scattered, contented farmers. Duncan Cameron holds out longer than all others, but is finally coerced into leaving his well-loved land. The Cygnet Oil Producing and Refining Co. is a kind of prototype of the Standard Oil. Its methods are totally unprincipled and it does many cruel and some criminal deeds. The description of the change in the farmers who become suddenly rich and wander through the world shows some original character-studies. A love story brings the facts together. At Seaton Academy, which is, of course, Exeter, three fine, manly comrades, respectively captains of the football, baseball and track and field athletic teams, make a compact to support each other in carrying through the really great responsibilities that devolve upon each. The purpose is that for the honor of their school they may achieve a "great year" of triple victory over their traditional rival, "Hillbury." How they develop their material, rise superior to discouragement, and fairly attain their ambition, together with many jolly incidents of real school life, forms the story.

Eggleston, G: Cary. Love is the sum of it all: a plantation romance; il. by Hermann Heyer. Bost., Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., [1907.] c. 387 p. pl. D. cl., †$1.50.

A story of a Virginia plantation of the present day. Warren Rhett left his father's plantation when he found that the father intended to marry his ward, with whom the son was also deeply in love. Some years after he returns at the widowed stepmother's call to straighten up her hopelessly involved business affairs. The story is a study of the ideas of liberty as held by the freed slaves on the old estate. The young master is at first very severe, but after a time is himself conquered by love and a wish to live and let live. The spell is cast upon him by a young painter of animals, with whom he finally goes abroad to his old profession of civil engineering.

The little volumes of the Rubric Series are planned to give to readers various good things that are "established or settled by authority," in a handy form. Especially the design is to include things which are unget-atable—things which "everybody ought to know" but usually does not. Each volume is printed in two colors, with appropriate marginal decorations especially made for it, and bound in a shapely format. "The canticle of the sun" is the most celebrated of the writings of St. Francis, made into a decorative book with illuminated and hand-lettered text and marginal designs of mediæval character. Decorations by Marion C. Bridgman. The other volumes so far published are Lincoln's "Gettysburg addresses" and "The Rubáiyát."

While the life of Madame de Staël has been written many times, few of the earlier biographies are adequate, owing to the scantiness of the material then available. They give, this writer says, "a somewhat uncritical relation of her public life, but leave her personal life wrapped in mystery, without even suggesting that there are secrets unrevealed." His work is a pitiless narrative, sustained by human documents only accessible in recent years, throwing light on Madame de Staël's many intrigues and so-called friendships, especially on the lifelong relations that existed between herself and Benjamin Constant, whose "Journal intime," never translated into English, is largely quoted from. Mr. Gribble is author of "Lake Geneva and its literary landmarks," etc.

Author is superintendent of playgrounds, recreation parks, and vacation schools, Pittsburg, Pa. President G. Stanley Hall, of Clark University, Worcester, Mass., to whom the book is dedicated, writes an appreciative introduction. The study of which this book is a revision was begun at Clark University and published in the Pedagogical Seminary in 1894. Since then the writer has been in very intimate and almost constant touch with children. "The theory, history and place of play in education," the subject of Pt. 1, is considered in three chapters, namely, The meaning of play, Play in education, and The periods of childhood and their relation to a course of plays and games. Following in Pt. 2, A suggestive course of plays and games, is given, graded by age from infancy to middle teens, and also analyzed so as to show the chief mental and physical activities involved in and developed by each of them.  A compilation of unique recipes for making soups, cooking shell fish, fish, fish sauces, entrées, eggs, chicken, macaroni, making salads, candies, cakes, punches, etc. What makes the recipes so distinctive is that almost every one is individual and that they are contributed by members of the large cosmopolitan population of San Francisco, who offer, in a form that has come to each through generations of inheritance, a representative dish of his or her particular nationality, including the Spanish, Mexican, Italian, French, Hawaiian, East Indian, and other schools of cookery.
- Marsh, R: Who killed Lady Poynder? N. Y., Appleton, 1907. c. 6+337 p. D. cl., †$1.50.
 A detective story evolved by means of clever dialogue and an airy style. Claire Seton, the friendless heroine, finds herself alone in a dark room of a strange house with a bag of jewels in her hand; she is trying to find the owner. The light turned on reveals a woman who, upon hearing Claire's story, leaves the room to investigate. Claire then discovers the body of a murdered woman, and dazed she stoops and picks up a revolver. Two men enter, and as she turns toward them the revolver is discharged and the woman's husband is wounded. Claire and another woman are accused of the crime, and some fine detective business follows. Nihilism plays a part in the plot. The scene is fashionable London.

 The fortunes of an English family named Muncassen, consisting of the millionaire father, who has made his money in trade, his wife, eight boys and girls and a few cousins, are followed in this long story, the scene being a magnificently appointed London house. To this home comes a niece of Mrs. Muncassen, little Dolores Ellerson, after the death of her parents, her father having committed suicide at sea. She grows up a lovely girl, but has many abnormal traits, her supernatural gifts making her a not very desirable companion. She constantly sees visions and foretells all the many disasters of the story. She seems to be "the burning torch," her inward fires gradually consuming her. There is scarcely a ray of sunshine in the story. By the author of "Into the highways and hedges," etc.

A number of clever schoolboys in a small town conceive the idea of giving novel circus performances for the benefit of their library. They are so successful that an offer is made them to go on the road for a six weeks' tour as professionals under salaries. As several of the boys are ready to go to college the next year, but lack the money to pay their way, they are allowed by their parents to accept the offer. Their manager is a big-hearted man, who asks for no moneyed return. He takes his recompense in fun and fresh air, and divides all the profits among the boys. They all make plenty of money and have no end of good times and exciting experiences.

The author of "Historic Illinois" and "When wilderness was king" presents some of the romantic and picturesque features of the great West in an interesting yet historically accurate manner. The work is divided into three parts, "Exploration," "The struggle for possession," and "Occupation." The first part describes briefly the nature of the great plains, its flora and fauna, and the various Indian tribes, the first Spanish and French explorers, the expedition of Lewis and Clark, the fur traders, etc. In Pt. 2 are chapters on the first emigrants, early army service, during the war with Mexico, the reign of the prairie schooner, the overland route, the army of the plains, etc. Pt. 3 depicts the beginning of settlement, the struggle of eastern Kansas, days of the cattle kings, building the first railroad, etc.

The author of "Prince Chap" has made an exhaustive study of the Assyrian legends regarding Queen Semiramis, the wife of Ninus, king of all the world. He weaves into his story of fierce passions and great wars nearly 800 years before Christ, descriptions of the habits and customs and cruelties of those bygone days. Especially the long wars and the huge weapons of those days are described in great detail.

By the author of "Ancient coffers and cupboards." The collecting and identifying of old oak has within the last few years awakened so much enthusiasm that its many devotees will eagerly welcome a work whose purport is to classify in chronological order examples of the various articles, based largely on personal investigation in England and on the Continent, and referring frequently to contemporary writers and manuscript illustrators. A noteworthy feature of this painstaking book is the fact that it is illustrated by the author himself; hence the student receives doubly the benefit of the writer's private researches.

Among the Osark Hills in southwestern Missouri lived the strong men and women of whom the author of "That printer of Udell's" tells his present story. The "shepherd" has been a worldly minded minister, whose only son has done an Osark girl a great wrong. The father settles among the hills, teaches the people, and becomes the dearest friend of those his son had injured. The heroine is known as "Sammy" Lane. Her giant lover and his giant father and her own uncompromising sire are characters that teach the old, old story of love and duty.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 14, 1907.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

DESCRIBING FIFTEENTH CENTURY BOOKS.*

THE title of a fifteenth century book, as already pointed out, should be given in as brief a form as possible, without omitting the essentials. If it is impossible to condense the title intelligibly it might be better to give it in full, marking the beginning of the lines, if the book is of sufficient importance to warrant such treatment, with an upright stroke (|), reproducing the physiognomy of the type as closely as the resources of the local printing office will permit—in short, giving as close a copy of the original as possible. The colophon should always be given in full.

As regards place, there does not yet seem to be any fixed rule as to the form in which it should be written, whether in Latin or in English. Many of the older bibliographies having been written in Latin and the colophons of the majority of early books being written in the same language, collectors have grown familiar with the Latin forms of most of the place names. However, the trend is rather toward modern forms, and it were well to give the bibliographical information, especially in booksellers' catalogues, in the vernacular and in the most concise and clear form.

The date should always be given in Arabic figures. The day of the month, when it is given in the colophon, should always be put down in the description, as it is often of great importance. In countries where the new year began in March, as pointed out by E. Gordon Duff, in his work on "Early Printed Books," there is apt to be confusion with dates unless it is remembered, for example, that the 20th of January, 1490, is later than the 20th of December, 1490. The beginning of the year varied in different countries, and often in different towns. The four most usual times for its commencement were: Christmas day, December 25; the day of the Circumcision, January 1; the day of Conception, March 25, and the day of Resurrection, (Easter.) The 25th of March was, on the whole, most common; but in dating any book exactly the rule for the particular town where it was printed should be ascertained. An approximate date should always be supplied to the description of an undated book; but this date should not be a mere haphazard conjecture, but should be determined by an examination of the characteristics of the book, and comparison with dated books from the same press, so that the date that is ascribed is merely another expression for the characteristics noted in the book. It is only after a careful study that accurate dates can be ascribed to books of a particular press, and monographs on particular printers must be consulted when it is possible.

*Continuation of "The Profession of Bookselling." Full credit for authorities quoted will be given on the conclusion of the article.

"In describing old books, the old form size should be used, being the only one which does not vary. Under modern notations a cut down copy of a book in quarto would become an octavo, and thus two editions would be made out of one. The size of an old book is very simply recognized by holding up a page to the light. Certain white lines, called wire marks, will be noticed, occurring, as a rule, about an inch apart, and running at right angles to the fine lines. These wire lines are perpendicular in a folio, octavo and thirty-two mo and horizontal in a quarto and sixteen mo. In a twelvemo, as the name implies, the sheet is folded in twelve; and in the earlier part, at least, of the sixteenth century, this was done in such a way that the wire-lines are perpendicular; the height of the sheet forming two pages, as is the case in an octavo, while the width is divided into six, instead of four as in an octavo. The later practice has been to fold the sheet differently, the height of the sheet forming the width of four pages, and the width of the sheet the height of three pages; consequently the wire-lines are horizontal. Among early printed books the twelvemo is a very uncommon form; quartos are most numerous, especially after the fifteenth century, and after these come folios."

It should be remembered that the signature has nothing to do with the size of the book. It was merely a guide to the printer to show him how many leaves go to the quire and the order in which they were to come. The binder found it convenient to have his quires of from eight to twelve pages each, and the quires were thus made up whether the book was folio, quarto or octavo. If the quires consisted of eight leaves each, then each quire of the folio book contained four sheets, of the quarto book two sheets, and of the octavo book one sheet.

THE McCLURE COMPANY.

THE book publishing firm McClure, Phillips & Co. will hereafter be known as The McClure Company. The affairs of the new company will practically remain under the same administration, S. S. McClure being the president, J. W. Corrigan, the vice-president and general manager, Harold Roberts, treasurer, and O. W. Brady, secretary. The magazine interests will be controlled and conducted as before by the S. S. McClure Company.

This firm has deservedly won a reputation as one of the most energetic publishing houses, and since its organization has published an exceptional number of very successful books by authors of prominence, such as Conan Doyle, Henry Harland, Anthony Hope, Henry Seton Merriman, Stanley Weyman, Joel Chandler Harris, Charles Wagner, Stewart Edward White, Booth Tarkington, Ida M. Tarbell, S. R. Crockett, Joseph Conrad, etc. The firm has also gained a reputation for well made books. It has adopted as its sign the dolphin and anchor mark used by the famous Aldus. Its motto is Aldi Discip. Americanus, and it has consistently made an endeavor in the product of its printery to live up to the ideal thus established of being one of the American disciples of the great Italian Aldus.

Of Mr. McClure's present associates, J. W. Corrigan is well known to the trade through his connections with G. P. Putnam's Sons, whom he represented on the road for a number of years, and with the firm of McClure, Phillips & Co., with whom he has been connected since the organization of the firm under that name. As a bookseller and distributor of books he takes high rank among his colleagues.

Harold Roberts, the treasurer of the new firm, has won distinction in the magazine field, notably with The Century, The Youth's Companion and Munsey's, as well as in the advertising field.

Oscar W. Brady, the secretary of The McClure Company, has been connected with McClure's Magazine since its first publication, and has proved himself an able and enterprising executive.

With so strong and able an executive staff the future of the firm seems assured, and it will no doubt achieve still greater success than it has achieved in the past. In behalf of the trade we extend our best wishes.

GEORGE HAVEN PUTNAM'S OBJECTIONS TO PENDING COPYRIGHT MEASURES.

IN a recent letter to the New York Times correcting certain errors as to the copyright status and referring to the report to the American Bar Association, George Haven Putnam makes the following statement of publishers' objections to the present form of the pending copyright measures:

In certain respects the pending bill would secure an improvement over the present conditions of copyright.

In certain other respects, however, the provisions of the bill are seriously defective.

The existing copyright statute differs from the copyright law of any other country in providing for a practically unlimited infringement of the control on the part of the producer or of his assign of the work copyrighted.

The law, as enacted in 1891, was the result of discussions that had gone on during the preceding five years. During the last hours of the session a provision (which had not been brought up for consideration at any time during this long series of discussions) was inserted, which permitted the importation into this country, irrespective of the consent of the owner of the copyright, by librarians, associations and individuals, of copies of the work copyrighted.

In its earlier provisions the law undertakes to give an exclusive property right to the producer and to his assign, while in this later provision the privilege is given to any citizen or resident of the United States of interfering with such right, and of acting precisely as if the work in question possessed no copyright protection. Such a confusion of provisions in one statute constitutes a travesty of copyright and of justice, and, as stated, is not to be paralleled in the copyright law of any other State.

The pending bill undertakes to confirm and to continue in a new copyright law which is intended to possess some degree of permanence, these curious privileges for certain classes and individuals of exemption from the restrictions of copyright. In so far as the principle and purpose of copyright are set at naught by this privilege of practically unrestricted importation, the law, if it should be enacted, would fail to secure an effective or equitable system of copyright. The grounds on which these exceptions to copyright protection are defended by the advocates of the pending bill are, first, that such exceptions are in the existing statute, and, second, that the privilege of importing copyrighted works without the permission of the owner of the copyright would constitute a convenience to a good many people.

As a result of this provision in the existing statute, the value of the copyright for the United States in a market for which the producer is able to give no exclusive control tends steadily to lessen, and the returns to the producer, the author, are of necessity smaller than would be the case if he possessed under the law, and were able to assign to a purchaser, a clear title to the article in question.

The pending bill is also defective in increasing the restrictions and burdens of the so-called manufacturing requirements. European States, such as France, Germany and Italy, are controlled by a protectionist policy, which is substantially in line with that of the United States; but in no one of these protectionist States has it been thought equitable to bring into copyright law protectionist conditions or restrictions in no way germane to copyright. The book manufacturing interests which secure protection in the countries in question are referred for such protection to the tariff system.

The pending bill is further seriously defective in the provisions relating to the extension of copyright. In the desire (in itself fully legitimate) to secure for living authors the advantage of the extension of the term of copyright proposed, no measures have been taken to prevent the destruction of property rights in investments that have been made under the existing statute.

Under such statute a number of copyrights have been purchased outright, and in the case of composite works, such as cyclopædias, etc., the material so purchased forms an inseparable part of the entire work. Under the provision now proposed the right of ownership in the copyright which had thus been assigned would, after the expiration of the first term, be revived for a further term for the interest of the author or of the heirs of the author. These heirs would be placed in a position to prevent the further publication of the material in question, and in this manner investment, which (particularly in the case of composite works) possessed large money value and continued importance, would be imperilled or destroyed. The provision in question should be so modified as to prevent the taking away of property rights in such investments.

It is on these several grounds that the bill, as now drafted, is not likely to secure the approval of either publishers or authors.

BOOK PLATES.

THE Journal of American History recalls the following facts concerning book plates: It was within a half a century from the invention of printing that book plates were introduced as identifying marks to indicate the ownership of the volume.

Germany, the fatherland of printing from movable type and of wood cutting for making impressions in ink on paper, is likewise the home land of the book plate.

The earliest dated wood cut of accepted authenticity is the well-known "St. Christopher of 1423," which was discovered in the Carthusian monastery of Buxheim in Suabia.

It was to insure the right of ownership in a book that the owner had it marked with the coat-of-arms of the family or some other heraldic device. Libraries were kept intact and passed from generation to generation, bearing the emblem of the family.

The first book plate in France is dated 1574; in Sweden, 1575; Switzerland, 1607, and Italy, 1623. The earliest English book plate is found in a folio volume once the property of Cardinal Wolsey and afterward belonging to his royal master.

The earliest mention of the book plate in English literature is by Pepys, July 16, 1688. The first known book plate in American belonged to Governor Dudley. Paul Revere, the patriot, was one of the first American engravers of book plates and a designer of great ability.

BOOK-BEGGING.

ALFRED NUTT, the English publisher, recently called attention in the London Athenæum to a nuisance common also in this country, namely, the begging of books by public institutions and individuals. We give Mr. Nutt's communication in full:

"In common with, I presume, all other London publishers, I have received the accompanying application:

"I am secretary of the Public Library in this town. We have had a penny rate in force for some years, but it only amounts at the present time to £107 per annum, and this does not give us more than about £50 a year for spending on books. We have now had a new library building presented to us by Mr. Carnegie, which will be opened next month, and I write to know if you could see your way to giving us a small present of books published by you towards our library, as I feel sure any gift of the sort would be much appreciated."

"It seems desirable that literary papers as well as trade organs should have their attention called to the matter, and I feel I cannot do better than ask the leading literary journal of the British Empire to grant me space for a few remarks.

"The application in question is no isolated one. A considerable number of library secretaries seem to imagine that in some mysterious way publishers bring books into the world without incurring expense, and are in a position to give away freely what has cost them nothing. Undoubtedly each such applicant thinks only of his own 'modest' request; but I shall be borne out by my colleagues when I say that if all such applications were granted entire editions would be required.

"The present is a particularly flagrant instance of an application that should be sternly resisted on grounds of principle. It is admitted that the library building has been given to the town; it is admitted that a rate is levied upon all inhabitants, whether they use the library or not; and yet the producers of the very articles for the supply of which all this outlay, either gratuitous or forced, has been incurred, are now asked to provide them gratis. It is much as if the town in question should determine to give free meals to the indigent, should accept the gift of a dining-hall, should force the ratepayers to contribute, and then—should dun Smithfield Market for gratuitous beefsteaks. Is it not time that municipal and other authorities recognized that libraries exist, not for the purpose of keeping the building trade going, not even for the purpose of paying miserably attenuated salaries, but for the purpose of disseminating and encouraging literature—a purpose which can be best effected by purchasing what the man of letters produces? No library scheme should,

I would urge, be considered unless it makes ample provision for this, the primary purpose of a library.

"I fear that any appeal to Mr. Carnegie is useless. Still, I would fain hope that my appeal, if printed in The Athenæum, may reach him, and may induce him, in the case of any further benefactions, to reserve at least 25 per cent. of the total sum he proposes to give for a Purchase Endowment Fund. Failing such provision, he should clearly realize that the large sums he has given or may give are, as far as what must be assumed to be his main object is concerned, largely wasted."

OBITUARY NOTES.

THE REV. DR. WILLIAM WEST KIRBY, arch-deacon and formerly of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church at Rye, N. Y., died on September 5, aged eighty. Dr. Kirby was born in England and educated at Oxford. The first twenty-five years of his ministry was spent as a missionary in the Hudson Bay regions. He is said to have been the first missionary of the Protestant Episcopal Church to penetrate the American Arctic Circle. He translated both the New Testament and the Book of Common Prayer into the language of the Indians and the Esquimaux.

RENE FRANÇOIS ARMAND SULLY-PRUDHOMME, the French critic and poet, died on September 7 at his villa near Chatenay, France. He was born in Paris, March 16, 1839. In 1865 he brought out his first volume of poems, entitled "Poesies," better known by its sub-title, "Stances et Poèmes." The book at once attracted the favorable notice of the literary public. This was followed by a dozen other volumes, and in 1901 he won the Nobel prize for the most remarkable literary work in the sense of idealism. Although by no means a rich man, the poet devoted a considerable portion of the prize to establishing an annual award for excellence among the younger French poets. As a critic he published two volumes, "L'Expression dans les Beaux Arts" and "Reflexions sur l'Art des Vers." He wrote for the Revue des Deux Mondes, among other articles an important study of Pascal.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

EMERSON HOUGH, whose new novel, "The Way of a Man," is to be published shortly, has made an enviable reputation as a writer on western themes. It may be said truthfully of him that he has slept out of doors more, travelled more after big game, and seen more of the actual life of the open than any writer ever before the American public. And yet Mr. Hough is not strictly a Westerner. He was born in the East, and comes of sturdy Quaker ancestry. From his earliest years, however, he felt the call of the West, and as soon as he could he went thither, and as he whimsically expresses it, "has been going ever since," for never a year passes without a trip into some wild country in search of big and dangerous game.

LOUIS M. ELSHEMUS, author of "The Poet," and "About Girls," recently published by Eastman Lewis, of New York, and fourteen other books, both in verse and prose, was born at Laurel Hill, N. J., in 1864. He is a graduate of Cornell University, (class of 1885.) After leaving the university his inclinations led him to the study of art, at the Art Students' League, New York City. After two years he went to the Ateliers Julien, Paris. He returned to New York, and since 1889 has had his studio here, exhibiting in all the annual displays in Philadelphia, Boston and New York. At the present time he has achieved enviable success as a master in color, draughtsmanship, and originality in his subjects and technique. He is the creator of over nine hundred paintings in oils and water colors, both landscapes and figures, and has executed over seventeen hundred sketches and drawings. In the field of literature Mr. Elshemus is quite as prolific. During the years 1883-1907 he has accumulated over thirteen thousand pages, both in poetry and story writing. Mr. Elshemus is a polyglot, and has written verses, plays and poems in five languages—English, French, German, Italian and in Spanish. Besides these languages he has partially studied Arabic, Sanskrit and Chinese. Besides these accomplishments he has the musical gift. He has composed over fifty pieces of piano music.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—S. E. Newcomer, bookseller, it is reported, is bankrupt.

BALTIMORE, MD.—John H. M. Murray and James I. Donnellan, trading as the Catholic Publishing Company and the Calvert Publishing Company, have filed a petition in the Equity Court asking for a receiver to take charge of the business.

BOSTON, MASS.—G. A. Jackson, for a number of years connected with the law department of Little, Brown & Co., has established himself in business under the title of The Students' Co-operative Law-Book Exchange, at 24 Bromfield Street. He will deal in new and second-hand law books, and would be pleased to receive publishers' and second-hand dealers' catalogues.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—Next week The Antlers Bookshop will remove to larger quarters, 322 Royal Street, diagonally opposite to where they have been for three years. Mr. Goodman, late buyer for Barkalow Brothers, Omaha, Neb., who is in charge, reports that New Orleans people are buying more standard literature and less fiction each year.

NEW YORK CITY.—Charles H. Doscher has severed his connection with B. W. Dodge & Co., having sold his interest to William Rickey, formerly with the Funk & Wagnalls Co. and recently of the Consolidated Retail Booksellers. Without change of name B. W. Dodge & Co., 24 East Twenty-first Street, has been incorporated under the laws of the State of New York. Mr. Dodge retains his interest and has associated with him Theodore Dreiser, editor-in-chief of the Delineator, and William Rickey as the other stockholders and officers of the corporation.

NEW YORK CITY.—E. W. Hall has been made one of the directors of Moffat, Yard & Company.

NEW YORK CITY.—The trustees of the United Educational Co. announce that the referee has declared a third dividend of four per cent., to be paid at once.

NEW YORK CITY.—L. Kolner, formerly at 78 Fourth Avenue, has removed to 124 West 116th Street. Mr. Kolner intends to keep a full line of new and second-hand books in English and in all foreign languages. Catalogues of publishers and dealers will be welcome.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Publishers' Co-operative Company, with headquarters in the Stokes Building, 333 Fourth Avenue, has succeeded to the business of Montgomery & Co., a partnership originally established in 1905 as Daly, Montgomery & Lewis. As reorganized and incorporated the new company centralizes in one organization the various departments of literary work usually conducted as separate enterprises. Their business is divided into eight departments: Special research for the compiling of works on arts, sciences and religion and for preparing text books; general research for compiling encyclopedias, indexing, for preparing bibliographies and to tabulate and classify miscellaneous subjects, and general editorial revision; translating; reviewing literature, art, music and drama, and making special arrangements with current periodicals for regular periodic contributions; advertising; reading, criticizing and revising authors' manuscripts and marketing those of a certain standard; lectures; and proofreading, stenography, mimeography, addressing, press clipping, etc. The object of the company, in short, is to be a right-hand for every publishing house needing the work of its own intern force supplemented from without, especially in the handling of large contracts, and such as demand authoritative execution.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—H. R. Cooper, bookseller, has sold out to Johnson & Kohler.

SPOKANE, WASH.—John W. Graham & Co., booksellers, last month celebrated their eighteenth anniversary in business. Mr. Graham, on August 4, 1889, succeeded S. Heath, who had lost his stock by fire. Graham & Co. worked up the business from a stock in a camping tent to a building of three full floors and basement, their warehouse containing 54,000 square feet.

WESTFIELD, MASS.—Samuel S. Connor celebrated the fortieth anniversary of his business career a week ago. Mr. Connor in 1873 started as a newsdealer. Gradually he developed his business to include books, wall paper and stationery.

AUCTION SALES.

SEPTEMBER 24, 25, 10 A.M. and 2 P.M.—Library of Dr. G. Henry Lodge, of Boston, author and translator of Winckelmann's "History of Ancient Art Among the Greeks," etc., together with small consignments of illustrated, curious and out-of-print books. (1454 lots.)—Libbie.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE leading articles in the Political Science Quarterly for September, (Ginn & Company, Boston,) is "The Attitude of the State Towards Trade Unions and Trusts," by Henry R. Seager. Professor Seager advocates equal freedom of combination for capital and labor, and equal restraint of trade unions and of trusts when they attempt to misuse their powers. Besides other timely articles the number contains reviews of, or notes on, nearly one hundred American, English, German, French and Italian publications.

The Pathfinder, published by the University Press, Sewanee, Tenn., with the July number began its second volume. During the year the Old Authors series, including Malory, Cervantes, Boccaccio, Michelangelo and Abelard, will be continued, and a new series of Literary Portraits, including Waller, Herrick, Suckling, Jonson, Lovelace, Campion and Carew, will be added. Dr. Weygandt's series will include, among others, articles on Stevenson, Houseman and Newbolt. Mr. Wiley will continue his series dealing with the English romanticists, and Mr. Rose his criticisms of art and artists. There will be special numbers devoted to Dante, Milton, etc.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE EDWARD P. JUDD Co., of New Haven, Conn., has adopted the $1.15 price for $1.50 list fiction, which they have for several years been selling at $1.08.

J. S. OGILVIE PUBLISHING COMPANY remind dealers in stocking up for the fall not to overlook their new Play Book Series, now including 107 titles of bright, actable plays; their pocket edition of joke books, after-dinner stories, toasts, etc.; also, their line of Laura Jean Libbey books, which are always in demand.

THOMAS WHITTAKER, INC., will publish shortly a volume on "Country Communion Classes," by Arthur Lethbridge and V. S. S. Coles, of Pusey House, Oxford; also, "The Blessed Virgin and all the Company of Heaven," by the Rev. Dr. A. T. Wirgman, to which Canon Knox-Little writes the introduction.

CHARLES D. RAYMER & Co., 1522 First Avenue, Seattle, Wash., will publish on October 15 "Raymer's Dictionary of Greater Seattle," a complete encyclopedic dictionary of the city and its environs, map, street guide, historical and descriptive matter, etc., with an appendix giving the names of Alaska buyers and a large number of illustrations.

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. have in preparation "Ibsen as He Should Be Read," a popular as well as a scholarly interpretation of the great dramatist by one who has made a lifelong study of him in his original tongue, Edwin Bjorkman; also, an "Animal Book," with text and illustrations by Dan Beard, a volume filled with stories of adventure.

JAMES POTT & Co. will bring out next week "Madame de La Fayette and Her Family," by

M. MacDermot Crawford; "Madame de Staël and Her Lovers," by Francis Gribble; "Famous Beauties of Two Reigns," an account of some fair women of Stuart and Georgian times, by Mary Craven; and "The Book of Fair Women," by Federigo Luigino.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY announce that owing to the fact that instead of 600 pages, the "Centenary Missionary Conference Records," (giving the report of the great missionary conference at Shanghai, China,) will contain 800 pages, and will be illustrated. The price has been raised from $2 to $2.50 net. The edition of this book is limited to 1000, and although it will not be published until quite late in the fall, orders should be placed immediately.

E. B. TREAT & Co., New York City, will publish during the latter part of the month "The Cyclopedia of Fraternities," a compilation by Albert C. Stevens of existing, authentic information and results of original investigation as to the origin, derivation, founders, development, aims, emblems, character and personnel of more than 600 secret societies in the United States, supplemented by maps, charts, etc. It is a book of 460 pages complete in one volume.

B. W. HUEBSCH, New York City, will publish at once Dr. Otto Pfeleiderer's new book, "Religion and Historic Faiths," translated by Dr. Daniel A. Huebsch. He will bring out in October two volumes in The Art of Life Series, edited by Edward Howard Griggs—"The Use of the Margin," by the editor of the series, and "Where Knowledge Fails," by Earl Barnes, the well-known educator; also, "A Princess and Another," a novel, by Stephen Jenkins.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. publish this week in the New Universal Library "A Consideration of the State of Ireland in the Nineteenth Century," by G. Locker Lampson; "The Travels of the King, Charles II., in Germany and Flanders," 1654-1660, by Eva Scott; "The Commercial Relations of England and Portugal," by V. M. Shillington; "The Condition of the Border at the Union," by John Graham; and "Reminiscences of Scottish Life and Character," (new series in one volume,) by Dean Ramsey.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish on the 27th inst. a novel by Maarten Maartens, entitled "The New Religion: a Modern Novel." By the new religion is meant the worship of the specialist, the slavish deference which is accorded the great surgeon who has attained to a position of wider influence in the modern family than was ever enjoyed by the priest in the past. A famous physician figures as the evil influence of the romance, which is a more serious treatment of the subject taken up in "The Healers."

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. bring out this week besides the books announced in our issue for September 7 a new novel by Una L. Silberrad, entitled "The Good Comrade," a story in which are pictured with indescribable charm

the Holland dunes, rose-blooming under foot and dove-clouded overhead. They will bring out at once a new novel by Upton Sinclair, entitled "The Overman," in which is told the story of an English musician, who, wrecked upon a desert island in the South Seas, lives for twenty years alone, during which time he finds himself, while yet in the body, becoming cognizant of a spiritual world of people, activities and emotions.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish early in the fall a volume of reminiscences written by the late General John Eaton, of which the title is "Grant, Lincoln, and the Freedmen." The book touches upon General Eaton's career as United States Commissioner of Education from 1870 to 1886, but the emphasis is laid upon the earlier phases of his work during the Civil War, when he took charge of the army of refugee negroes which flocked for protection to the Union forces. The maintenance of a rudimentary public school system by the Union army during the conflict is one of the most interesting phases of the work which General Eaton superintended.

THE REV. H. F. LYTE, author of "Abide With Me," and other well-known hymns, wrote much verse of a varied character. Besides a large body of poems and hymns, he composed "Tales in Verse on the Lord's Prayer," "The Spirit of the Psalms," and a poem entitled "The Battle of Salamanca," which won the Chancellor's Prize at Dublin University. The whole of Lyte's poetical works have been collected by the Rev. John Appleyard, and they will be published shortly by Elliot Stock, of London, with an extended biographical sketch, in which interesting particulars are given of Lyte's work at Brixham and in Ireland, and an appreciation of his writings.

WILLIAM DOXEY, Baltimore, Md., (whose publications "At the Sign of the Lark," San Francisco, are still favorably known among collectors,) announces for fall publication "True Manhood," by Cardinal Gibbons, the basis of the little volume being an address by His Eminence to the graduating class at Worcester College this year; "Cartoons and Character Sketches," by McKee Barclay, a selection of this talented cartoonist's sketches, social and political, which have appeared in the Baltimore News; "Rose of Old Regime," and other poems of home, love and childhood, by the Bentztown Bard, (Folger McKinsey,) many of which have appeared in the Baltimore Sun and have been extensively quoted.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just ready the Baroness Orczy's new novel, "Beau Brocade," in which the author returns to the field wherein she became famous—that of romantic fiction, and which is said to excel "The Scarlet Pimpernel" in romance and excitement. They have also just ready "When Kings Go Forth to Battle," a new novel by William Wallace Whitelock, whose "Literary Guillotine," published several years ago, aroused considerable favorable criticism; also, a timely volume in "The Story of a Football Season," by George H. Brooke, coach of Swarthmore College, and advisory coach of the University of Pennsylvania, which lucidly explains the new revised game of football.

CASSELL & Co., New York City, will have ready September 30 "The Romance of the Salvation Army," by Hulda Friedrichs, with introduction by General Booth, illustrated with many photographs; "The Coming of Isobel," by Helen Wallace, a novel in which the author turns from the cavalier days of her "To Pleasure Madame" to our modern days and scarcely less inspiring excitement; and "The Land of Enchantment," a collection of fairy and fanciful tales by A. E. Bonser, B. Sidney Wolf, and E. S. Buchheim, all illustrated by Arthur Rackham, of "Peter Pan" and "Rip Van Winkle" fame. The Cassells have in preparation some carefully chosen books for the holiday season, of which full announcement will follow shortly.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. have prepared for the holiday season a volume of "Bright Ideas for Entertaining," by Mrs. Herbert B. Linscott, about two hundred suggestions for the entertainment of social gatherings, birthdays, holidays, etc.; "Novelties and How to Make Them," a collection of hints and helps in making pretty, useful and interesting things; "Wit and Humor of Women," a collection of witty sayings by bright women, forming a new volume in their Wit and Humor Series; "Ease in Conversation," by Emma Churchman Hewitt, advice to the timid and backward in conversation with suggestions as to grammatical speech; also, "The Child Lover's Calendar," an engagement calendar for 1908 in book form, with twelve illustrations in color by Amelia Bauerle.

THE OUTING PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish in October a book entitled "The Tragedy of Russia in Pacific Asia," by Frederick McCormick, journalist, artist and war correspondent. The narrative tells the story of the war as the author, a war correspondent, saw it, and felt it. Mr. McCormick was with the Russian army as special representative of the Associated Press, and shared the fortunes of that unhappy host during the dark days of the flight from Mukden. He witnessed the first and second attacks on Port Arthur, and all the principal land battles of the war, and after the signing of peace he accompanied the Red Cross Squadron to Japan to arrange for the evacuation of the Russian prisoners. His book is a serious study of the Eastern question, as well as a history.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just published a new volume of Dr. Philip Schaff's "History of the Christian Church," six volumes of which have already been published. The new book is volume v., part 1, in the series, and deals with "The Middle Ages from Gregory VII., 1049, to Boniface VIII., 1294," and is written by David S. Schaff, D.D., the son of the late Dr. Philip Schaff, who has used the material already gathered by his father as a foundation for this important addition to this great work. It will be followed by another volume covering the period to the Reformation. The new volume is considered by competent judges to be distinguished by the same wide learning and scholarly presentation which caused the faculty of Berlin University to say of the previous volumes of the work that "the 'History of the Christian Church' is the most notable monument of universal historical learning produced by the school of Neander."

THE C. M. CLARK PUBLISHING COMPANY, Boston, has just brought out a work on "Theatrical and Amusement Law," by Judge J. Albert Brackett, the attorney for the Association of Theatre Managers of Boston, Mass., who is regarded as an authority upon theatrical law. His work treats of every phase of the history of the theatre, giving profuse references to leading and important decisions. Among the matters discussed are: ownership of plays; author's rights; fire and panic; right of ejection; theatrical contracts; Sunday performances; house contracts; ticket speculators; cancellation; disability; liquidated damages; and remedies at law and in equity. They are bringing out a work on the "new thought," entitled "The New Light," a subject upon which the author, Mrs. Jennie Folsom Merrill, has lectured. It teaches charity and self-mastery, with no pretense at especial originality. In October they will publish an "Up-to-Date Pauper," by Miss Helen Maude Wheeler, and "Woodhull," by Pliny Berthier Seymour. The latter is the story of a boy who was carried off by the Tuscaroras in childhood and returned to his family a master of woodcraft and profound in Indian wisdom, and after receiving an Oxford education became a scout and a spy for Greene and Washington.

WILLIAM J. BURKHARDT, Jersey City, N. J., has brought out a number of attractive novelties for the holiday season, among which are a bell-shaped pen wiper, with a small ivory paper cutter and a suitable inscription in gold lettering; a greeting card with a miniature broom, the handle of which is a pencil, and a seasonable motto encircled with holly leaves; a tag for baby's stocking with the favorite rhyme "Hang up the Baby's Stocking;" a folder entitled "Christmas Toast," one flap of which is a pretty photogravure showing a bunch of cunning puppies, and on the other flap Thackeray's toast, beginning with the line "I drink it as the fates ordained it;" a Yale Key on a heart-shaped key-ring, with the motto "May this key unlock every Christmas joy your heart desires;" a certificate on the Universal Accident Insurance Co., which may be filled out to guarantee contentment, happiness and prosperity; and a 1000-mile ticket good on the Central Railroad of Prosperity. These little souvenirs while inexpensive enough to be used as an accompaniment of a larger gift, are yet important enough to serve as gifts themselves or as reminders of the sender's good wishes. Mr. Burkhardt has also prepared envelopes with pretty holly branches in the corners and wrapping paper of all grades and sizes with holly wreaths and other stamping symbolic of the holiday season.

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY publish this week a new volume in their Art Galleries Series, entitled "The Art of the Prado," by C. S. Ricketts. The Prado, which contains practically intact the work of the leading Spanish artists, has been called a collection of masterpieces. Its leading artists are Velasquez, Titian and Rubens, but with very few exceptions the foremost painters of all the schools are represented by their best work. They have also just ready a new story for young people by Marion Ames Taggart, author of "Pussy Cat Town," and a frequent contributor of charming bits of verse to such magazines as the Atlantic Monthly, entitled "The Doctor's Little Girl." The heroine is the adorable little daughter of a country doctor, but it is hard to say if the doctor will not be as great a favorite with readers as Nancy herself. They will publish shortly a book for young people, entitled "Billy's Princess," the story of a newsboy, by Helen Eggleston Haskell, who was for several years before her marriage a regular correspondent for the New York Press, and also contributed articles and stories for children to the papers of the middles west under the pseudonym of "Aunt Nan." She has a broad knowledge of the inside life of the newspaper world, and the adventures in "Billy's Princess" are woven against a solid background of truth. The illustrations are by Helen McCormick Kennedy.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just ready "A Turnpike Lady," a tale of Beartown, Vt., an old-time American idyl, with the spirit of locality strong upon it, laid in the period of 1768-1796, by Sarah N. Cleghorn; also, a volume of "One Hundred Great Poems," selected by R. J. Cross, and published in the same general style as Lucas's "The Friendly Town." They will bring out later this month a work entitled "Wage Earners' Budgets—a Study of Standards and Cost of Living in New York City," by Louise B. More, a book which oddly combines a peculiar human interest with solid sociological value. It gives the figures tabulated after careful examination, of the cost of living among wage earners on the lower West Side of New York City, from which we get a pretty vivid idea of their daily lives, housing conditions, cost of living, economics and extravagances, pleasures and recreations, and provision for the future and for death. Of course these tables are but a small part of a very interestingly written book issued with the endorsement of the Greenwich House Committee on Social Investigations, of which Professor Seligman, of Columbia University, is chairman. The book has a preface by Professor Franklin H. Giddings, of Columbia University. They will publish shortly the long-awaited "Atlas of European History," by Professor Earle W. Dow, of the University of Michigan; also, an edition of Grillparzer's "Die Ahnfrau," with introduction, notes and vocabulary by F. W. J. Heuser, of Columbia University, and G. H. Danton, of Stanford University.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will bring out in October a work on "The Salon," by Helen Clergue. After a brief and comprehensive introduction in which the nature and growth of the French salon are traced, this volume makes the reader intimately acquainted with four distinguished and fascinating women—Mme. Du Deffand, Mme. Geoffrin, Mme. d'Épinay and Julie de Lespinasse—who, in the France of the eighteenth century, exercised a potent and, on the whole, beneficent influence, and this thanks to their compelling charms of mind and heart, to their elegance and grace of manner, or to the range and depth of their sympathies, in the warmth and glow of which the great men of the age expanded, developed and flourished. The work will have twenty illustrations, photo-gravures and half-tones, representing the principal personages, women and men, who have a place in it. They also announce for the fall a little book entitled "Pleasures of "Literature," by Robert Aris Willmott, (1809-1863,) a clergyman of the Church of England who lived quietly in the country, dividing his time between clerical duties and literary pursuits. He was the careful and scholarly editor of a goodly number of English classics, a maker of anthologies, a preacher of distinction, and best known as the biographer of Jeremy Taylor and of the little volume here in question, which went through five English and five German versions within a few years after its publication. A new book by Élie Metchnikoff, entitled "Nature, Science and Optimism—a Study in the Life of Man," is also in the press.

THE CENTURY COMPANY will publish on the 25th inst. a novel by Beatrice Mantle, entitled "Gret, the Story of a Pagan." It is the tale of the daughter of an Oregon lumber camp, and Mrs. Mantle is picturing a life she knows, her engineer-husband's business carrying them among many wild and unfamiliar scenes. They will publish on October 19 Timothy Cole's "Old Spanish Masters"—one edition a limited edition de luxe—a new volume of verse by Richard Watson Gilder, "The Fire Divine;" three new Thumb-nails—Longfellow's "Tales of a Wayside Inn," Dickens's "Seven Poor Travellers," and Stevenson's "Travels with a Donkey;" David Homer Bates's "Lincoln in the Telegraph Office;" Ralph Henry Barbour's new story, "Tom, Dick, and Harriet;" and Emilie Poulsen's book of "Father and Baby Plays." Following the publication of other records of the findings of the American Archaeological Expedition to Syria in 1899-1900, under the patronage of V. Everit-Macy, Clarence M. Hyde, B. Talbot B. Hyde and I. N. Phelps Stokes, William Kelly Prentice, Professor of Greek at Princeton University, has prepared for publication by the Century Co. this fall all the epigraphical documents in Greek and Latin found by the expedition. They will also issue this fall a new series of books made up of stories and sketches reprinted from St. Nicholas. There will be six of these books of adventure, travel and description, the scenes laid in different sections of the United States; and the books will be called: "Western Frontier Stories," "Stories of the Great Lakes," "Island Stories," "Stories of Strange Sights," "Sea Stories," and "Stories of the South."

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. will publish on the 21st inst. "The Nether Millstone," a new novel by Fred. M. White, author of "The Crimson Blind," etc., in which he again displays his ability as a deft weaver of plot and counterplot. They have in preparation "Lord Cammarleigh's Secret," a novel, by Roy Horniman, with an audacious plot and a fascinating hero; "By Neva's Waters," a new story by John R. Carling, in which the author of "The Shadow of the Czar" deals with an episode in the secret history of Alexander I. of Russia; a collection of verse by Arthur Stringer, author of "The Wire Tappers;" also, "Italy the Magic Land," a new book by Lilian Whiting, in which she aims to present a living panorama of the comparatively modern past of Rome. They have begun the publication of a new law work of the highest value to every practitioner and student of law in "Select Essays in Anglo-American Legal History," by various authors, compiled and edited by a committee of the Association of American Law Schools. The work will be complete in three volumes, and will include essays on almost all of the main subjects of law, from corporations to wills, covering also the general field of "Sources of the Law," "Law Reform," and "Colonial Law," and will form substantially a supplement to Pollock & Maitland's "History of the English Law Before the Time of Edward I." The wealth of material by law writers of eminence and deep research, now being gathered in these volumes, and heretofore scattered in comparatively inaccessible volumes of periodicals, possesses a value for the professor, student and practitioner which can hardly be overestimated. The first volume will be ready at once, the second will be published next year and the third in 1909.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY will publish this month "Life of Japan," by Masuji Miyakawaya, a naturalized American, Professor of Law at the University of Indiana and author of "The Powers of the American People." Educated both in Japan and here, he has been employed as the official interpreter for the Japanese Army and is in close touch with the Imperial Government. His book covers the past history of the Island Empire, its religious, social and educational life, but its keynote is the very complete history of the relation of Japan to the United States. It shows plainly the American influence on the national character of the Japanese. Three other books to be ready shortly are "A Man of Sark," (or Sercq,) by John Oxenham, author of "The Long Road," a romance of the period of 1800, when England was engaged in a naval combat with France and Spain, Sark being the smallest island of the channel group, actually belonging to England, though enjoying a comparative freedom, whose inhabitants are of Norman extraction; "The Story of My Childhood," by Clara Barton, founder and organizer of the National Red Cross in the United States, which, in time, will be followed by several volumes bearing on her later life; also, Part 2 of "Jnana Yoga," concluding the series of books based on the lectures of Swami Vivekananda on the method of realizing our divine nature through wisdom. They have in preparation the memoirs of Frederic Mistral, who bestowed the Nobel prize, of which he was the recipient, on the foundation of a museum in Arles, where are to be preserved the monuments, relics, weapons, costumes, etc., of the Provence; also, "The Story of Joseph," which is supplied by George Alfred Williams, the illustrator, with a foreword on Egypt, giving as it were a background of the people and the life of the various castes, describing the existence of a Pharaoh, the priests, the soldiers and the husbandman, the last class being the one with which Joseph had so much to do.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish their first books of the fall season on September 21, as follows: A new story for boys by Dr. Everett T. Tomlinson, entitled "The Campfire of Mad Anthony," with illustrations by Griswold Tyng; a new edition with colored illustrations by Jay Hambidge of Mrs. Alice Prescott Smith's thrilling romance, "Montlivet;" a handsome library edition, in two volumes, of "The Familiar Letters of James Howell;" Thomas Hood's ballad, "Faithless Nelly Gray," with fifteen humorous cuts by Robert Seaver; "The Causes of the Panic of 1893," by Professor W. Jett Lauck; "Industrial Education," by Professor Harlow S. Person, of Dartmouth College; a new "Popular Poets Series" in ten volumes, including the works of Aldrich, Cary, Emerson, Harte, Holmes, Longfellow, Lowell, Sill, Tennyson and Whittier, with many illustrations and handsomely bound in full leather; new editions in the Riverside Juvenile Classics of "Grandfather's Chair," by Nathaniel Hawthorne, and "Brave Little Holland," by William E. Griffis; and "Shelley's Poems" and "Prose and Poetry of John Henry Newman" in the Riverside Literature Series. An important biography is announced by Houghton, Mifflin & Co. in "Augustus St. Gaudens: a Memorial," by Royal Cortissoz. This handsome volume will contain a memoir of the great sculptor and a study of his work by a distinguished art critic who was his intimate friend. It will be illustrated with fine photogravure reproductions of St. Gaudens's work. They will also bring out the second series of "Mornings in the College Chapel," by Professor Francis G. Peabody, of Harvard University. This will be his third volume of short addresses to young men on personal religion. It is a book that would be particularly valuable in the hands of one who has to discuss with an intelligent group of hearers some of the many phases of religious and social life. In their conciseness of utterance, depth of spirituality, and the directness of their personal appeal to reason it would be hard to excel these short addresses.

F. A. STOKES COMPANY will publish in the fall "Winston of the Prairie," a new novel by Harold Bindloss, author of "Alton of Somasco," etc., in which, again, the spirit of the prairie, cruelly magnificent in some of its moves, is evident. But through all this there runs an extraordinary plot. They have also in preparation volumes on Velasquez, Reynolds, Romney and Turner in a series of monographs entitled Masterpieces in Color, the text of which will be illustrated with reproductions in color of the masterpieces of each artist; "The Van Rensselaers of Old Manhattan," a romance of old New York, charmingly illustrated by Weymer Jay Mills; also, "Under the Southern Cross," by Elizabeth Robins, author of "The Magnetic North," the romance of a charming girl's sea trip from San Francisco to New York, by way of Panama, with illustrations in color by John Rae. For young people they will bring out in their Dandelion Classics two new volumes—"The Twenty Best Fairy Tales," for which Lucy Fitch Perkins has selected the most popular stories from Grimm and Hans Andersen, and Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream," prepared for young people by Mrs. Perkins, who also furnishes the illustrations for the series; "Uncle Remus and Bre'r Rabbit," with illustrations in color by J. A. Condé; a "Garden Book for Young People," by Miss Alice Lounsberry, a book similar in idea and purpose to her "Wild Flower Book for Young People," the material for which will be told in the form of a story with the incidental purpose of showing how children can have a beautiful garden without very great expense; also, under the general title of The Wonder Books of Science two books by Professor E. J. Houston, entitled "The Wonder Book of Volcanoes," in which are described the most famous manifestations of volcanic energy, such as the outbreaks of Mont Pelée and Vesuvius and the San Francisco disaster; and "The Wonder Book of the Atmosphere," which treats of such subjects as climate, weather and the methods of the weather bureau, and the phenomena of sound, light and heat.

HARPER & BROTHERS announce for September Gilbert Parker's latest work, "The Weavers," a story full of action and contrasts with Egypt, fiercely beautiful, leading man swiftly into passion, and sober England with quieter tragedies as background, with illustrations by André Castaigne; "From Van Dweller to Commuter," by Albert Bigelow Paine, a typical story of New York City; "Ancestors," by Gertrude Atherton, who presents California with its ancestral power and beauty embodied in a descendant—a woman; "The Exploits of Arsène Lupin," by Maurice Leblanc, translated by A. Teixeira de Mattos, the story of an engaging villain who always succeeds; "The Chemistry of Commerce," by Professor Robert Kennedy Duncan, of the University of Kansas, describing for the lay reader the most recent discoveries in industrial chemistry, with a number of illustrations; "The Indian's Book," by Natalie Curtis, described as "the revelation of the Indian—of his mind and his beliefs, his character, his songs, his legends, his very soul," with an introductory note by President Roosevelt, and illustrations in color and in sepia; "A Critical Examination of Socialism," by W. H. Mallock, an explanation of the subject, pointing out the weak as well as the strong points of the doctrine as it is understood in this day; also, "National Development," by Professor Edwin Earle Sparks, forming the twenty-third volume of The American Nation series, which with this volume swings into recent history. For young people they announce "Harper's Electricity Book for Boys," by Joseph H. Adams, with an introduction by Thomas A. Edison, which is designed to give boys in plain language a practical knowledge of electricity, with numerous illustrations; "Sunnyside Tad," by Philip Verrill Mighels, author of "Bruvver Jim's Baby," etc., who tells the story of a lovable boy and his lovable dog and how they face the world together; also, "Wee Winkles and Her Friends," by Gabrielle E. Jackson, who gives a further account of Wee Winkles, the doll's school room, the little baby kittens and Jerry, the fire engine horse.

DODD, MEAD & Co. publish to-day George Barr McCutcheon's new story, "The Daughter of Anderson Crow," dealing with an imaginary town where simple, kind-hearted American country folk live, with illustrations by Martin Justice; "Those Queer Browns," by Florence Morse Kingsley, author of "The Singular Miss Smith," etc., with a frontispiece by Harrison Fisher; "The Revelations of Inspector Morgan," by Oswald Crawford, author of "The Ways of the Millionaire," etc., a piece of detective literature which will be found a book of rare interest to lovers of detective stories; "A Little Girl in Old Baltimore," by Amanda M. Douglas, author of "A Little Girl in Old New York," etc.; "Patty in Paris," by Carolyn Wells, author of the Patty books which have been a popular success with young girls; "Two Teddy Bears in Toyland," by Elizabeth M. Gordon, the illustrations of which are very amusing and are made from photographs of Teddy Bears and children's toys in positions to illustrate the story; also, a new edition of "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush," by Ian Maclaren. Later in the month they will publish "The Stooping Lady," by Maurice Hewlett, author of "The Forest Lovers," etc.; "Her Son," by Horace Annesley Vachell, author of "Brothers," "The Hill," etc.; and "The Heart of Jessie Laurie," by Amelia E. Barr, author of "The Bow of Orange Ribbon," etc., all of which have already been fully described by us. The list of juvenile books to be published by this firm during the fall is unusually strong and contains titles by many well-known authors of children's stories. There is a book on "American Indian Fairy Tales," by Margaret Compton. Professor Harry Thurston Peck has written a new girls' story, entitled "Hilda and the Wishes." Amanda M. Douglas has another book on the list, "In the Sherburne Line." Miss Mabel Dearmer has written "A Child's Life of Christ," which will be illustrated with eight full-page pictures in colors and many illustrations in black and white. "Marjorie's Vacation" is the first of a new series of books for girls, by Miss Carolyn Wells.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplaced advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

1st In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

2nd Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The First Secretary

By DEMETRA AND KENNETH BROWN

Illustrated with a colored frontispiece and four half-tones.

A story of an American attaché and a Turkish maid.

Wrapper in color. 12mo. Cloth.....$1.50

A wonderful story of a country little written about. It transports the reader to the heart of Constantinople. The Turkish Harem and the Turkish ruler are pictured by a writer who has lived in Constantinople.

A Noble Company of Adventurers

By RUFUS ROCKWELL WILSON

Author of Sea Rovers, etc.

Drawings by May Fratz.

$1.00

A Boys' book full of absorbing interest both to young and old, as well as informing.

28th

Feminine Finance

By FRANCES CROUCH

Drawings by Amy E. Hogeboom.

12mo. Cloth.....$1.50

The story deals with the efforts of two women to help another woman out of a difficulty, the doing of which requires money. Cousin Jim, a bachelor cousin of the woman to be helped and from whom these women expect to get the money, plays the star part. For downright cleverness of plot, humorous situations and originality of treatment, few books of recent years approximate this one.

*Just PublishedTHE DUMPLING

By COULSON KERNAHAN

Author of God and the Art, etc.

Illustrated by Stanley L. Wood.

12mo. Cloth.....$1.50

A detective story of a great labor rising in London. Mr. Kernahan has studied the submerged of London at close range and from that fact, together with the remarkable incidents of the story he has constructed an attention compelling romance.

THE HARRINGTONS OF HIGHCROFT FARM

By J. S. FLETCHER

Author of When Charles the First was King, etc.

With 8 illustrations by J. Ayton Symington.

12mo. Cloth.....$1.50

It is a novel of real characters and will please and surprise real judges of literature.

Thimm's German Self Taught.

OGILVIE'S TEACHERS' BIBLES—22 Styles

in minion and bourgeois types. Text Bibles and Bibles with helps and references in 16mo and 8vo sizes.

India Paper Edition, Red Letter Edition, Regular Editions, Sunday-School Scholars' Bibles

Nearly five years ago we were invited to become associated with those Bible publishers who are governed by an agreement to maintain high prices. We refused to do so. The wisdom of our refusal, and its importance to booksellers, becomes apparent when at this time we are able to say that our Bible business is entirely satisfactory, and Bibles of equal quality to ours cannot be purchased elsewhere at prices less than from 25 to 50 per cent. more than we ask for them. JUST THINK THIS OVER.

Any of our books can be purchased of us direct or of your jobber if more convenient to you.

Don't pay Dictionary Trust or Bible Combination prices for Dictionaries or Bibles. Buy our books and make more money.

THE JACOBS LIST

New Books for 1907-1908

THE bookseller who fails to consult the Jacobs List before laying in his fall stock will forfeit the opportunity of securing some of the very best titles for the coming year.

It is a list with a purpose throughout---not merely to load the market with books, but to present to the dealer a selection which will enrich his shelves with useful, ready-selling volumes.

To-day is listed a new title in the Wit and Humor Series---one of the most popular collections of keen humor ever published. Special literature describing this series will be sent upon request.

New volumes have also been added to the American Crisis Biographies. If you have any historians among your patrons you are losing an opportunity to place the entire set in their hands unless you keep in touch with the progress constantly being made in this series.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual 1907

"The man who first spoke of the 'Publishers' Trade List Annual' as the 'Bible of the book trade' uttered a fitting phrase but used a simile that is open to at least one criticism. If the holy book was as often consulted by the public in proportion as the Trade List is by the bookhunter the cry that it is a 'neglected book' would never be heard, for in every shop and in every public library this familiar 'jumbo' in pebbled green is in constant daily use."

—Bookseller, Newdealer and Stationer.

"It sometimes happens, we know, that a dealer in a fit of misdirected economy will try to get along with his last year's Annual, but the experiment soon becomes an aggravation, for he quickly finds out that he cannot afford to have his bibliographical equipment a whole year behind hand."

—The Publisher and Retailer.

Thrilling! Romantic! Exciting!

BY THE AUTHOR OF "THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL"

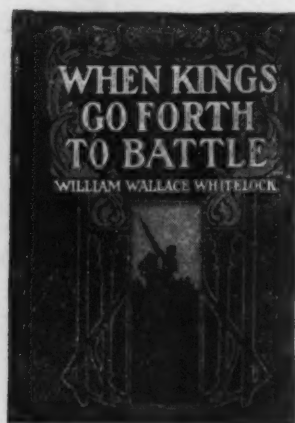

BEAU BROCADE

BARONESS ORCZY

Baroness Orczy's vivid descriptive power and genius for inventing dramatic situations have won for her an enviable place in the field of romantic fiction. Her latest story tells of Beau Brocade, a cashiered army officer, of high birth, who, dismissed from the service through the treachery of a superior officer, takes to the road and becomes a master of chivalrous highwaymanry. The romance is full of go, there is real ingenuity in the plot, and the interest is kept up at an intense pitch.
